

Anxin-China Attended the 4th China's International Safety Security Emergency Technology & Equipment Exhibition

On the morning of June, 25th, 2013, the 4th China's International Safety Security Emergency Technology & Equipment Exhibition was successfully held in Beijing. Accordingly, as the representatives of Anxin-China, Peng Xuanlai, the manager of marketing center, and Ji Bing, the manager of marketing department, attended this management forum & exhibition on invitation.

The theme of this forum being “people oriented, rescue scientific”, all participants with more than 500 domestic and foreign representatives, made a further discussion about six topics including rescue mechanism, system, legal construction and et al. In recent years, China's government has highly focused on the safety production with emphasizing the safety is first, according to Xi Jinping, the state president of China; it's required to constantly perfect mechanism, strengthen responsibility, strictly supervise, improve the resource using and emergency management information construction, to realize the information sharing, increased response speed of emergency rescue as well as effective decision-making ability.

Anxin-China, the largest security system & solution provider in China's safety production and urban public security area, has been always devoting to promoting the emergency rescue capacity in China's multiple areas, for instance, coaling, dangerous chemical, coal mining and et al. Anyway, all those reforms aim at the same goal of rapid development of smart & safe city plan in China. In fact, the intelligent and safe city project developed by Anxin-China has been largely acknowledged by the senior government leaders. Thus, it's completely expected that Anxin-China will get a series of powerful edges in intelligent security area in China's market, with promoting the development of whole industry.
